

April wholesale prices jump .8%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's rosy 1976 economic picture faded Thursday when the Labor Dept. reported that a one-year record rise in farm and food prices drove wholesale prices up 0.8 per cent in April.

The increase, a nearly double-digit annual rate of 9.6 per cent, indicated another surge of inflation for grocery shoppers. Economists also believe more people were out of work in April.

These developments posed problems for President Ford as he defends his economic policies on the campaign trail. Ford claims credit for the recent upturn, including bringing inflation in this first quarter to a four-year low.

FORD'S TOP economic advisor, William Seidman, acknowledged in an interview that prices will not hold at low levels. But he insisted inflation this year will be below 1975.

"The President is always worried about a resurgence of inflation," said White House spokesman Ron Nessen.

"(But) it doesn't have to happen and it isn't anticipated it will happen." Nessen said the White House had "early indications" that May price rises would be less. Seidman indicated he was unaware of those reports.

April's price surge ended a five-month lull. The upward trend was expected to continue as manufacturers collect increases already announced for steel, aluminum, copper, lead and wood products.

ALTHOUGH METALS prices began climbing in April, industrial prices showed only a 0.3 per cent rise. Combined farm and processed food prices rose 2.8 per cent — the biggest leap since April, 1975.

Livestock, eggs and coffee led a 4.2 per cent rise in farm prices, the biggest in nearly a year. Beef and veal forced processed food and feed prices up 1.9 per cent. Not since November 1974, have processed foods risen so fast.

Seidman said there is no reason to doubt Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz' estimate of a 3 to 4 per cent increase in food prices in 1976.

The Wholesale Price Index in April stood at 181.3, up 5.3 per cent from a year ago. That means wholesale goods costing $100 in 1967 now cost $181.30. The index for farm products was 8.6 per cent higher than a year ago; for industrial goods it was up 6.1 per cent.

Wholesale prices dropped by a compound rate of 1.8 per cent in the first quarter of 1976, while consumer prices rose 2.3 per cent, the smallest rise in nearly four years.

MSD receives $114.8 million water plant bid

The Metropolitan Sanitary District has received a low bid of $114,874,000 for construction of the proposed O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant.

James Murray, a MSD attorney, Thursday said a joint low bid was submitted by Paschen Construction Inc., Chicago, Newberg Construction Co., Chicago, and S. J. Grove and Sons Co., Minneapolis, Minn. The bid was $76,000 below the lowest of two other bids.

Murray said the bid is about $3.8 million more than the MSD's engineering estimates for the project, which is proposed for 106 acres at the southwest corner of Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street, Des Plaines. The bids are subject to the approval of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, which will fund 75 per cent of the project.

"THE BID IS close to our estimates, and we don't expect to have any problems getting it approved," Murray said.

The MSD in March rejected bids on the project and decided to readvertise because the low bidder did not meet project specifications.

The sewage treatment plant will treat 72 million gallons of sewage a day. It also will relieve flooding in Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

Before work on the plant may begin, however, a U.S. District Court must rule on a lawsuit filed by Des Plaines in an attempt to block construction for health reasons. The city has been battling the MSD in court since 1966.

MURRAY SAID U.S. District Court Judge George Leighton has delayed until June 7 a decision on a challenge by Des Plaines to the EPA's environmental standards for construction of the plant.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said if the judge rules against the city, the matter may be taken before the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

Des Plaines recently lost a battle before the Illinois Supreme Court over city contentions that the MSD should be required to follow strict local health ordinances governing sewage emissions from the plant. The high court ruled that the city has no authority to regulate regional agencies.

Elk Grove Village officials have joined the MSD in opposing Des Plaines, saying the plant is needed to alleviate chronic flooding problems in the village.

Fans mob singer, several trampled

Screaming fans Thursday afternoon mobbed John Travolta when their actor-singer idol visited Woodfield Shopping Center, and in the crush several persons were trampled and two juveniles arrested.

The 22-year-old star of "Welcome Back, Kotter" escorted by a half-dozen policemen, entered Woodfield's Grand Court in a speaking and autographing appearance. An estimated 15,000 to 20,000 teens and young adults awaited him.

While Travolta spoke, the crowd

Interview with Travolta

stayed orderly. But once he finished and stepped down to sign autographs, police reportedly started to disperse the crowd.

The screaming crowd responded by surging forward, witnesses said. A disc jockey who shared the spotlight with Travolta stumbled and fell, but a policeman pulled him to safety. Others weren't so lucky.

Deborah Mitchell, 18, of Streamwood, was treated and released at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, for bruises on her head, ankle and neck after she reportedly fell and was trampled.

During the melee, police arrested two juveniles on charges of aggravated battery, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. A patrolman suffered a cut finger and was treated and released at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Blaze guts cafe; arson suspected

A flash fire Thursday afternoon gutted the Prospect House restaurant, 6 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, and firefighters suspect arson.

The blaze apparently started simultaneously in several places in the restaurant, firemen said. An arson investigation has been launched.

Firemen reportedly found flammable liquid in the eating area and backroom of the closed restaurant. When the liquid ignited, the front window of the cafe blew out, firemen said. No one was injured by the blast or fire.

Firemen estimated damage to the building and furnishings at $15,000. The cafe is operated by Harry Pappas of Palatine.

A passerby reported seeing smoke at 4:50 p.m. Thursday, firemen said. Five units and 20 men responded to the blaze, which was quickly extinguished. Firemen forced their way into the back of the cafe to put out the blaze.

No previous signs of forced entry were found at the restaurant, firemen said.

A fishy fad—or, what you don't see is what you get

Today
Mike Klein's people

This is a sad story that I write today, the heart-tugging demise of the Invisible Piranha, the fish that would as soon eat you as look at you.

It all began harmlessly one day. Stan Leitner of St. Louis, who inserts a pipe between his mustache and beard, sat pondering how to reinvest the gains from his Stud Rock, who shall be called Sam.

Pet Rocks assaulted the gift market last year. Then Stan came forward with Sam. "He had sexual connotations," said Stan. "He was a rock for breeding."

Sam sold well. But then nobody wanted any more Sams molesting their Pet Rocks. All the Love Rocks refused to change color around Sam. It was a bad situation.

Stan got thinking and finally decided to invent his invisible piranhas.

THE CONCEPT was simple: All-out, painful revenge. Piranhas would strike terror into every septic system investigator, every dog who chased a river raft.

"You could use it for getting even with whoever was doing the dishes or put it into your mother-in-law's bath water," advised Stan during a telephone conversation this week.

The piranhas would be sold at $4 apiece, although they bring slightly more at P.J.'s Trick Shop in the Randhurst Shopping Center where Phil Johnson keeps watch over all sorts of absurdity.

"They used to have invisible goldfish," said Phil. "I remember years ago, I put water in the bowl. Women would come in and say, 'I see him breathing in there, but I don't see him.'"

WHEN YOU PURCHASE invisible piranhas from Phil, the capital outlay buys a box with tooth marks, a bowl, the human skeleton of a piranha victim and numerous invisible piranhas.

Stan insisted the skeleton is genuine human bones, although it appeared plastic to my untrained eyes. But what do I know about such things?

"There's a witch doctor in south St. Louis who provides those," Stan said.

An enclosed manual tells the new owner that the piranha enjoys live food, such as cows, sheep and spaghetti.

Cows are big creatures and coaxing one into the bowl might be difficult. Stan's book advises, "Grease cow thoroughly!"

Even this might not be good enough. You might entice the cow by placing grass inside the bowl.

THE INVISIBLE piranha made his debut during the New York Gift Show in February. Stan said the piranha was a gift show smash, grossing $50,000 in three days. That's lotsa piranhas.

The whole world wanted one. Television talk shows beckoned for them. There were orders from Canada, Europe and New Zealand.

Almost 75,000 invisible piranhas were sold within three months. They ate record amounts of unwanted living things. But now the bottom has fallen out.

"It's the swan song for invisible piranha," Stan lamented. "But it was an interesting ride."

Stan was not dependent upon invisible piranha to finance his family and put kids through college. He also draws a nationally syndicated cartoon strip for the Des Moines Register and Tribune newspapers.

THE INVISIBLE piranhas were just something to make money. "The idea," said Stan, "was to create a farce and see if it had any commercial appeal."

Now, Stan has gotten busy on other projects. There will be something around Christmas which features a canister of dead flies and a swatter with holes. But he did not go much further.

That's because he's concerned for my safety.

"I am being watched very closely by the Russians and Red Chinese," said Stan. "They might take you someplace and torture you until you told them what they want to know."

"With my high profile," said Stan, "they obviously can't do that."

Besides, he would probably lead them into a bowl full of invisible piranhas.

For liability insurance

$6,000 to reopen rail crossing

Des Plaines will have to pay an estimated $6,000 a year in liability insurance if the city decides to reopen the pedestrian railroad crossing in the downtown area.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said he has submitted the estimate to the city council so aldermen can determine whether they want to allocate funds for the insurance. The matter has been referred to the city council's finance and insurance committee for study.

Chicago and North Western Ry. officials have said they probably will not oppose reopening the crossing, but said they want the city to pay for liability insurance to cover accidents that are not the railroad's fault.

Behrel said the insurance would provide $1 million to $5 million in coverage in the event of injury or death and $1 million for damage to railroad property.

HE SAID IF the city council decides it does not want to pay the annual premium, officials may consider constructing a pedestrian bridge over the railroad tracks. The bridge could be connected with the second level of a city parking deck now under construction, he said.

"It might be cheaper in the long run to do that than it would be to be stuck with $6,000 a year for the rest of our lives," Behrel said. "Of course, that is something the council will have to decide."

In addition to liability insurance, the railroad has asked that the city pay the estimated $15,000 it will cost to install the crossing, warning lights and bells. The railroad also wants the city to maintain the crossing.

DES PLAINES merchants have asked the crossing be reopened, saying it would increase business by allowing shoppers easier access to both sides of the railroad tracks.

Behrel has proposed city officials meet with businessmen to determine whether they might be willing to pay part of the cost for reopening the pedestrian crossing.

Harper panel urges $1 tuition hike

A tuition hike at Harper College for the 1976-77 school year was recommended Thursday by the budget committee of the college board of trustees.

Tuition will increase from $14 to $15 per credit hour under the committee-approved plan. For a full-time student with an average course load of 15 credit hours per semester, total tuition costs will be about $30 more per year.

Trustees must formally approve the tuition hike at next Thursday's board meeting.

THE HIGHER TUITION rate will generate about $230,000 in the coming school year, said William Mann, vice president for administrative services.

This is the first tuition increase at Harper in three years. The budget plan also recommends another tuition increase of $1 per credit hour by 1978-79.

Tuition at Harper has gone up from $10 per credit hour in 1970-71. Mann said Harper is in the upper 10 to 20 per cent in tuition costs at community colleges in Illinois.

The budget plan adopted Thursday also calls for a tax increase of 5.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1977-78.

TRUSTEE WILLIAM Kelly said he did not think the community would approve a tax increase in a referendum, especially since an increase was approved last fall to finance a second campus for Harper.

College Pres. Robert Lahti said if Harper needed the tax increase, he felt the community would approve it.

Harper receives approximately one-third of its funding from student tuition, one-third from local taxes and one-third from the state.

Uncertainty over the amount of state aid the college will receive, has resulted in more reliance on tuition and tax money for Harper operations.

WITHOUT INCREASES in state aid or local taxes, Harper would face a $1 million budget deficit in 1980, Mann said.

With the tuition increase and a tax hike in two years, however, Mann said the college will have a balance of about $1.7 million in 1980.

Illinois community colleges this year have been hurt financially because of larger student enrollments without a corresponding increase in state aid.

Harper's enrollment this semester is up 19 per cent from last year. Another enrollment jump is expected next fall. The budget plan allots about $500,000 to handle extra enrollment.

Public participation urged in Dist. 62

Public participation at Des Plaines Dist. 62 Board of Education meetings would be encouraged under a proposal, drafted Thursday by the board's public relations committee.

The committee decided to recommend that the board change its agenda to permit public participation at the beginning and end of the meeting to introduce new ideas for consideration by the board.

Currently, the audience only is permitted to ask questions and present ideas at the end of the meeting. Individuals also can present ideas during the meeting if they request to be placed on the agenda at least one week in advance.

THE COMMITTEE ALSO will recommend that the board announce committee meeting dates far enough in advance so the community could attend and present recommendations.

Board member James Kosmond suggested that the audience be permitted to speak on agenda items as the topics came up during the meeting.

"It's my strong feeling there should be some sort of participation with the topics on the agenda," he said. "I personally prefer having some comments made as we take up a particular subject."

Board member Philip Bock said he was concerned the board would have to repeat information discussed at earlier meetings to answer questions from the audience if the board permitted the public to speak throughout the meeting.

"I visualize a number of situations where you'll have to reinvent the wheel before every vote," he said.

THE COMMITTEE also will suggest that the board suspend its agenda to permit more public discussion during a meeting if a large audience attends and is concerned about a particular issue.

The board recently was criticized by the community when audience participation was refused before the board voted to cut all first- and second-year teachers for next year. The action was part of budget cuts totaling about $700,000.

The committee also will recommend the board rotate the education meetings to schools throughout the district to encourage community attendance. Currently, most board meetings are held at the administration center, 777 Algonquin Rd.
